

"We Are Not Passive Observers - We have a potential within us that is our acceptance of the scientific fact that we each have the ability to create a quality of feeling in our hearts – not our thoughts in our minds. That feeling in our hearts is directly affecting the physical stuff our world is made of. It has a direct effect on everything from the individual healing of a body to the collective peace of a planet. When we feel the feeling of something as though it has already happened, there is an effect [in the divine matrix.]" Gregg Braden, scientist and visionary <http://www.greggbraden.com/about/>

The following is paraphrased from Gregg Braden's talk on Coast-to-Coast radio January 18th 2007 regarding The Devine Matrix:

2500 year old texts that were lost until now, tells us what quantum physicists are now discovering: that the power of emotion in feeling is the language that this divine matrix (this field – Nature's mind – created for us) recognizes. When we can feel in our hearts the things that we choose to experience in the world, this gives the field something to work with and mirrors that feeling back to us. If collectively we are told by government and news media how much to fear, is it possible that what we are seeing today in our world is a mirror of our collective fear? If the field is mirroring what we feel, what would happen if we felt differently? If we felt peace; if we felt justice; if we felt health; if we felt abundance, even though the world around us may not always seem to support that, what would happen in our world?

Indeed our world would change for the better.

When you create that prayer in our heart, it's already there. Use your energy to feel the feeling as if your loved one is safe; is healthy; is experiencing justice; is experiencing freedom so that the field can mirror that back to us. This feeling isn't something we do every once in a while; it is something we become. Feeling is a prayer so we are essentially in prayer all the time, every day.

Every mode of prayer, thought and feeling is valid and works. Adding feeling to the prayers and desires gives the divine matrix something to work with.

When we know that we are part of everything we see and that we are part of the solution, we then know that we can collectively change the world. These are profound concepts that have been hidden from us for 2500 years or more.

We are talking about a force that connects everything and everyone has access it. And we already know the language to speak to that force. That opens the doorway to another force that nothing on this earth can touch. When we tap into this power of emotion in our bodies to speak to the field in a meaningful way, we are empowered to be more than victims in our lives. This is because physical matter stems from this field.
